SILICON + 12 ESSENTIAL NUTRIENTS FOR EXCEPTIONAL TURF HEALTH

GOLF AND SPORTS TURF FORMULA

Grasses are silicon accumulators and healthy turf contains 2 to 3% SiO₂. When available, silicon is absorbed into the plant tissue and deposited into the epidermis layer of each cell. This layer acts like the "mortar" in a brick or stone wall, holding the shape and structure of the cells, leading to plants that are stronger and more resistant to disease and stress.

Recent studies measured mono silicic acid well below 100 ppm required for healthy turf. The next best way to boost silicon in the plant is through the regular application of a micronized foliar spray.
